

REBELS DEFEY AMERICAN PRESS.

All Foreign Correspondents Driven from Country.

Telling Truth About Villa Stirs Up Officials.

Method of Warfare Defended Will Be Continued.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

EL PASO, April 9.—Startling upon the criticism of American newspapers and believing that public opinion was crystallizing in opposition to the barbarous methods of warfare in vogue at Torreon, the rebel leaders today issued a statement defying the press and ordering all foreign correspondents driven from the country unless they agreed to send out only matter approved by the rebel censor.

In explanation of the fact that some of the correspondents had been threatened with death and had been repeatedly assaulted and fired upon when they attempted to leave Villa's camp, apologists of the Torreon command asserted that the men had tried to poison public opinion against Villa and that in self-defense the latter had been compelled to resort to extreme measures.

Col. Juan Medina, former jefe de Armas under Villa, summed up the situation tonight when he stated that the Constitutionalist had now become so powerful that they did not give a blank what was said about them in the American newspapers. When informed that Timothy Turner, the Associated Press representative, had almost been killed with a blow on the head, Medina replied that the correspondent had refused to send out news of Villa's victories and that he was guilty of smuggling news out of the country that was displeasing to the commander-in-chief.

MEDINA'S VIEWS.

"We have every reason to believe that the newspapers of the United States, which have criticized our methods, are not in accord with the sentiments of the Washington government and as long as our good friend, President Wilson, and Secretary Bryan are on our side we can afford to snap our fingers at the press or anyone else," he added.

Another version of the expulsion was expressed by the private secretary of Gen. Carranza, who stated that Villa was on the eve of a most important military campaign and that he could not afford to waste time in the treatment of newspaper men on the firing line.

BANS CARRANZA'S SECRETARY.

"All of our actions have been in harmony with the mode of warfare that has existed in Mexico for generations, and because some of the old ladies who think they are editors of great newspapers do not agree with our ideas, we must be subjected to censure and ridicule by their representatives at the front," he added.

"We cannot be expected to treat our enemies with the same degree of consideration that we accord our newspaper friends and therefore we have been thought best to let the press of the United States know at once that we are now independent of either the editors or readers of their papers."

BANS "GRINGO" PAPERS.

Capt. Alberto Castillo said that no more "gringo" papers would be allowed to enter the country and if the Americans did not like the manner in which the Spaniards had been treated they could all go to hell as far as the rebels were concerned.

An attempt was made to obtain the views of Gen. Carranza in person, but the "first chief" declined to be interviewed. He sent word that the order of expulsion had been given by Villa and that under the circumstances nothing could be done until the matter had been investigated.

When questioned regarding the statements of the correspondents that British Consul Cunard-Cummins had been forced under threats of execution to enter Villa's lines for the purpose of obtaining the surrender of the Federalists, the rebel officers present said they had no information on the subject, but supposed that Villa knew what he was about.

When questioned regarding the number of correspondents who were allowed to remain at Torreon, the rebels said that the representative of the El Paso Times was a personal friend of Villa, was the only one who had not been asked to leave. Details were made to the statement of the expelled writers that they had been treated outrageously or that they had been assaulted by Villa's order.

REBELS INDIGNANT.

The utmost indignation was manifested at the rebel headquarters tonight when it was learned that Capt. H. N. Coates had given orders to the American soldiers to arrest all Constitutional officers found on the El Paso side of the river.

"We have known for a long time that the rebel officers were coming to the American side in violation of the law and we are now going to put a stop to the practice," said the captain.

"We are not so anxious to catch the petty officers, but we hope to get the high officials who come to El Paso well knowing that they have no right to do so. A dragnet will be spread as soon as we find that the men are on the wrong side, and then we will show them that they cannot snap their fingers at American laws as they are now doing," he added.

Some of Gen. Carranza's advisers wanted to cause the arrest of every American in Juarez as soon as Capt. Coates' statement was received, but it later was decided to confer with Consul Edwards before hasty action was taken.

Anti-American sentiment in Juarez has increased 100 per cent, as the result of today's developments and all Americans who are able to leave are arranging to sleep on the American side.

Constitutionalist Consul Rafael Musguis said that the rebels were angered because of certain articles printed in American newspapers which he held were untrue, but he added that the rebel leaders were doing everything in their power to prevent personal clashes between the Mexicans and Americans in Juarez. A protest signed by all the newspapermen on the border will be sent to Washington, but there is little hope that anything will be done in the matter.

TAMPICO REFUGEES TO BE CARED FOR.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Officials here tonight were gravely anxious for the safety of foreign property in the Tampico district, where valuable oil plants already have been destroyed and other properties valued at millions are threatened by Mexican Constitutionalists and Federal rebels.

Dispatches today told of the burning of warehouses belonging to the Agrencia Commercial, a German company, with a loss of a half million dollars, and of imminent danger to the valuable plant of the Waters-Pierce Oil Refinery. This plant, the Navy Department learned today, has been occupied by attacking forces during the past few days and as a result shells after shells have been poured into it from Federal gunboats.

Rear-Admiral Mayo's suggestion that an army corps be sent to Tampico to harbor refugees probably will not cause official action here. The hospital ship Soladex with accommodations for several hundred, was due to leave New Orleans for Tampico tonight, and it was said at the Navy Department that the Mexican navy transport Prairie at Vera Cruz could be distributed among the other ships in Mexican waters to receive refugees with accommodations for at least 800, available for service at Tampico.

A messenger reported today from the border saying 1500 men had renewed fighting east of Torreon, left War Department officials now in doubt as to whether or not the probable outcome of Villa's occupancy of that city. No details came as to the outcome of the renewed fighting.

The fate of the 700 and more Spanish exiles from Torreon who made their entry into El Paso yesterday was not yet determined. The proposed cable dispatches, which incline to the opinion that the problem is one for the immigration authorities.

For the time being the exiles apparently are dependent upon the bounty of the people of El Paso and the Red Cross, which today called upon its El Paso chapter to report fully on the needs of the refugees. The State Department, through Agent Carothers at El Paso and Juarez, is still endeavoring to obtain protection of their rights and redress for their grievances against the Constitutional government.

ADMITS FALL OF TORREON.

Mexican Herald States Velasco Has Moved to a Position Where His Force Commands the City.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

MEXICO CITY, April 9.—The first admission that Gen. Velasco and the rebel army have occupied Torreon is made by the Mexican Herald today.

The newspaper states that Gen. Aureliano Blanquet declares that Gen. Jose Velasco, the Federal commander, has not evacuated the city "in the full sense of the word."

The Minister of War says the Federal commander has made a strategic move, which is expected to give the best results on the arrival of the Federal columns now on their way to Torreon.

According to Gen. Blanquet a position has been established by Gen. Velasco at Cerro de la Cruz, from which place he dominates Torreon with his artillery.

The newspapers printed in Spanish do not make any mention of the capture of Torreon.

The government announced this morning through the newspapers its intention of instituting a censorship of cable dispatches. The proposed censorship is said to be due to the "campaign of lies" being waged against the government and to protect the movement of the federal military forces.

HERO LOSES HIS LIFE.

USED BRITISHER AS MESSENGER.

Villa Told Him to Hustle to See Gen. Velasco.

Vice-Consul Is Fired on as He Returns to Rebels.

Carothers Advised Him to Go in Interest of Peace.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

EL PASO (Tex.), April 9.—H. S. Cunard-Cummins, acting British Vice-Consul at Gomez Palacio, was used by Gen. Villa to carry a demand to Gen. Velasco on March 27 in the course of the battle of Torreon, that the latter surrender. According to the newspaper correspondents who reached here from the front tonight, Mr. Cunard-Cummins performed the mission under protest and was subjected to rifle fire on his return toward the rebel lines.

George C. Carothers, special agent of the State Department at the battle, in the report he has made of the incident does not indicate that Mr. Cunard-Cummins was coerced into becoming Villa's messenger, but states that he did so with some reluctance after first refusing.

CAROTHERS' REPORT.

The report of Carothers to the State Department follows: "At 4 p.m. (March 27), Gen. Villa sent a messenger to see Cummins, requesting him to go to headquarters, and H. S. Potter accompanied him. When we arrived, after introducing Cummins to Villa, Villa said to him that he knew Cummins was an enemy to the Constitutionalist cause, that he had information that Cummins was accustomed to banqueting with the Federalists, that he knew he was a friend of Gen. Velasco, that in view of this friendship with Velasco he wanted Cummins to take a communication to Velasco, in which he demanded the surrender of the city to avoid further bloodshed. Villa said the message was couched in terms usual in warfare in such cases. Cummins refused to take the message, arguing that he was neutral and would not mix in political affairs of the country."

"At this Villa became angry and said we foreigners were demanding that he protect foreigners and his humanitarianism in his act and that at the very first opportunity given us to do some good we refused. He commenced to talk about probably having to fight all of us when I interposed and advised Cummins to go."

Villa said he first thought of sending the message by me, but on second thought had decided on Cummins, on account of his friendship with Velasco, as he would be in no danger. Cummins agreed to go, so I wrote some instructions to Mr. Uimer, Consul at Torreon, and he left about 5 o'clock and was to return about noon next day. The interview with Villa had a most serious aspect for a few moments, but as it turned out, Villa and he shook hands, called each other 'amigos' and parted on friendly terms.

Mr. Uimer, mentioned in the report, is L. M. Uimer, United States Consul at Torreon.

CALLES CUMMINS 'AMIGO.' Mr. Carothers, when seen by a reporter here today, amplified his report to the State Department as follows: "Just before leaving Villa's headquarters Villa called Cummins 'amigo.' O'Hara's turned to him and said, 'You call me friend?' 'Yes, I call you friend, because I want you for my friend,' Villa replied. 'I was into an agreement with you that he left all arrangements about getting away to us, then walked out with me to his house with Cummins, but left him before reporting there, in order to get a handcar. I saw Cummins enter O'Hara's house about a half hour later, met Cummins coming from O'Hara's house with a British flag and a flag of truce."

"I had been unable to get a handcar, so Cummins said he would go on foot, as it was getting late and the weather was bad."

REPEAL URGED TO AID WILSON.

Lodge Believes President Is Entangled Abroad.

Admits Treaty Gives Nation Control of Tolls.

Hints at Country's Mix-Up in Foreign Relations.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Hearings on the Panama tolls exemption repeal bill opened today before the Senate Committee.

Interest in the repeal itself was focused on the Senate itself, where Senator Lodge, veteran Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, held the attention of virtually the entire membership and of crowded galleries for more than two hours, defending the position of President Wilson in insisting on the passage of the repeal bill.

The Senator asserted that in his opinion the right of the United States to exempt any of its shipping from tolls was unquestioned under strict interpretation of the treaty, but because of the delicate position in which the country finds itself in its foreign relations, urged non-partisan support of the President.

"At the conclusion the galleries broke into applause and the Vice-President's gavel pounded several minutes before order was restored."

"To thwart the purposes or to discredit the policies of the government, the country finds itself in its foreign relations, urged non-partisan support of the President."

"In one case we overthrow a party leader within that arena where the American people alone sit in judgment. In the other we break down and discredit the representative of the whole country in the great forum of the nations of the world and paralyze his future power and usefulness in that field where he alone can declare and represent the policy, the honor and the dignity of the United States."

IN COMMITTEE.

Before the Senate Committee Senators Norris and Thomas appeared to discuss their tolls propositions, the session marking the beginning of the fifteen-day public discussion.

Representatives of commercial organizations in Pacific Coast cities and New Orleans, at whose request the hearings were ordered, have not arrived, and several Senators who have submitted substitutes for the Sims repeal bill, which passed the House, indicated today they had no desire to defend their proposals before the committee.

Consequently a delay to await the arrival of commercial representative appeared probable.

SENATORS SPEAK.

Senators who have introduced bills and resolutions on the subject were heard first. Senator Norris, Republican, spoke on his amendment to reaffirm the right of the United States to discriminate in favor of its own ships if it chooses to do so, and to direct the President to submit the controversy to arbitration. He opposed the exemption as a subsidy and said he did not want Congress to construe the treaty and foreclose the right of the United States to control the canal.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, made a statement supporting his proposal to make the canal free to all ships of all nations. Commissioner Chamberlain of the Navigation Bureau, Prof. S. S. Huebner, and Dr. Elmer Johnson, who investigated the tolls question for President Taft, will be heard later.

A MERE NAME IS CONGRESS.

Cummins Says President Has Negotiated Its Work.

Warns the Country to Beware of One-Man Rule.

Predicts Democratic Defeat at the Next Election.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CHICAGO, April 9.—United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa criticized tonight the Democratic administration, defined his stand on the tariff, and predicted the defeat of the party at the next election.

"The President has, for the time being, obliterated that ancient and once-powerful department of the government," he said.

"When, therefore, I speak for the Democratic administration, I mean Woodrow Wilson. The overthrow of the Republican government does not seem to have excited alarm but the day will come when the country will understand better than it does now how vital it is to preserve independence of executive authority."

"The President passed the tariff law. The Republican tariff of 1909 was too high. We ought to have reduced it, but we did not, and are now suffering the consequences of our folly."

"The Panama tolls exemption repeal probably will pass the Senate, according to Mr. Cummins."

"There are two entirely distinct and independent questions involved in this controversy," he said. "The first concerns a domestic policy and with it no foreign nation has a right to interfere and we would be a craven people if we permitted even the suggestion of interference."

"That is, if we had no treaty obligation, it is wise, it is fair to the whole country to give coastwise boats free passage through the canal. My answer is 'No.' I believe these ships of Michigan, centered their fire on the expense of maintaining and operating the canal."

"The second question concerns our rights under the treaty. To that I would say there is nothing in the treaty that in any way restricts or limits our absolute sovereignty in regard, and the man who is willing to accept the construction asserted by the President is willing to surrender our rights under the treaty."

"I have great admiration and respect for President Wilson," said Mr. Cummins, "but no one but the blindest partisan, or one who has given the matter no thought, can have the slightest respect for the foreign policy of his administration especially in Mexico. Indeed it cannot be properly called a policy at all, because it is unintelligible and aimless."

Mr. Cummins declared that by refusing to recognize Huerta the President lost his greatest opportunity to establish some kind of order in Mexico and save thousands of lives and countless treasure. He added:

"It looks in Washington as if England had our administration in a hole. Apparently she has taken advantage of the situation and said to the President: 'If you do not change the present circumstances, we will change the history of this country.'"

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

AUGUSTA (Me.) April 9.—A move to have the Republican State Convention today recommend the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt as a candidate for President in 1916, met with failure. A resolution to that effect adopted by the Republican caucus of the town of Yarmouth was offered as an amendment to the platform, but was declared out of order.

The platform adopted condemns the national Democratic administration for what is declared to be its "harmful surrender to Great Britain in the matter of the Panama Canal," "its violation of platform pledges," and "its vague, vacillating policy in dealing with conditions in Mexico."

National prohibition was favored. Underwood tariff law is characterized as "unjustly sectional, and a menace to our industries."

A woman's compensation law; a law limiting the work of women and children in factories to fifty-four hours a week; woman suffrage; ballot reform and a Presidential preference primary are advocated.

The convention adopted a resolution paying tribute to the memory of Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, late housewife of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The principal speakers, Congressman John A. Peters, who presided, and Congressman Patrick H. Kelley of Michigan, declared that the Panama Canal tolls and Mexican policies of the administration.

KELLEY'S ADDRESS.

"The reason given by President Wilson for the repeal of the free trade provision of the Panama Canal act makes it almost impossible for any vote of the people to carry out his recommendation," Mr. Kelley declared.

"As a purely economic question there may be room for a difference of opinion as to whether any ship, American or foreign, should pass through the canal without paying toll. It is a purely domestic question and can be handled by Congress at any time. Unfortunately the President did not have his request for repeal on economic grounds, but on the ground that we have violated our treaty with Great Britain."

PETERS' REMARKS.

"I have great admiration and respect for President Wilson," said Mr. Peters, "but no one but the blindest partisan, or one who has given the matter no thought, can have the slightest respect for the foreign policy of his administration especially in Mexico. C. McDonald introduced A. A. Rogers to speak for that State. Gov. Oswald West spoke for Oregon. He warned the delegates that it was easy to find fault with the present systems and suggested numerous methods of reclaiming arid lands.

"But the question is," he continued, "where are we going to get the money?"

Referring to the Carey act, he said: "Practically every Carey act project in Oregon has been a failure. The difference between the delegates from Oregon and those from other States is that we are willing to admit our sins and ask forgiveness."

"If the unclaimed lands under segregation in the different States are to be watered, it must come through action by the Federal government, or the States, or through co-operation between these agencies."

George H. Maxwell, an Arizona delegate, recounted the history of irrigation development in his State.

"Arizona has water running to waste in floods that is worth $1 a drop, almost, if it could be stored and put on the lands at the proper time," he said.

"I stored the storage of water in reservoirs as a means of preventing floods in the Mississippi River valley."

P. H. Griffin of California outlined the development of the public lands under the laws of that State. He advocated government reservoirs in the Sierra Nevada Mountains to prevent floods and store water for irrigation.

Phil D. Swing also spoke in behalf of California.

"Gentlemen—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (Bacilli were found). In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am strong and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated.)

EBEN S. DRAPER DIES.

Former Governor of Massachusetts Prominent in Republican Ranks Passes Away in South Carolina.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

GREENVILLE (S. C.) April 9.—Eben S. Draper, former Governor of Massachusetts, died here late today of paralysis suffered Tuesday. He was 65 years old.

The condition of Mr. Draper had been serious from the time of the attack. His entire left side was affected by the paralytic stroke. In addition to physicians here and from Atlanta, who were called in the case, two doctors from Boston were summoned yesterday.

Mr. Draper was stricken at a hotel here a few hours after his arrival on his way home from a trip to Florida and Cuba. As soon as his condition was noticed by physicians, telegrams were sent to members of his family in Massachusetts, summoning them to his bedside. They arrived today.

Mr. Draper was prominent in both the industrial and Republican political life of Massachusetts. He was Governor of the State from 1899 to 1901.

In 1892 he was chosen chairman of the Republican State Committee of Massachusetts. In 1896 he was chairman of the Republican State delegation from Massachusetts to the party's national convention. He was elected in obtaining the party's declaration in favor of the gold standard on the currency question.

When the Spanish-American war was declared in 1898 Mr. Draper was president of the Massachusetts Volunteer Association, directed in large part the raising of $200,000 which was used to fit out the hospital ship Bay State.

For several years Mr. Draper had been prominently connected with the textile machinery. His home throughout his life was at Hopedale, Massachusetts.

LAST HOPE OF GUNMEN

Eleven Written Words Stay Execution.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

ALBANY (N. Y.) April 9.—Eleven words written on a slip of paper which today was found in a bundle of old correspondence of B. M. Brown of New York, may mean the means of obtaining a stay of execution for the four gunmen convicted of the murder of H. Rosenthal.

According to Brown, the note contains a warning against credence to statements of Lukan and Max Margolis, who were the only witnesses against the gunmen written by a former assistant to Atty. Whitman. It was written, Brown said, for the guidance of Gov. William Sulzer, in which it was reported at the time of the trial that the communication was written, would appear as a witness against the gunmen.

The note bears no date or signature, but it was written at Albany, N. Y., and was given by Lukan or Margolis.

Upon discovering the note, it was given to Gov. Sulzer and he has been considering it. The error which in his legal aid, John G. Saxe and James L. Sullivan, an assistant of District Attorney Whitman, and the latter agreed to the District Attorney's office, has been corrected.

Brown told his story under oath in a deposition taken by the State of New York. He obtained a reprieve or a new trial condemned men.

Brown told his story under oath in a deposition taken by the State of New York. He obtained a reprieve or a new trial condemned men.

The note bears no date or signature, but it was written at Albany, N. Y., and was given by Lukan or Margolis.

Upon discovering the note, it was given to Gov. Sulzer and he has been considering it. The error which in his legal aid, John G. Saxe and James L. Sullivan, an assistant of District Attorney Whitman, and the latter agreed to the District Attorney's office, has been corrected.

GRAIN OF SALT.
It is all very well to talk about the importance of salt, but it is not so well taken as a warning rather than a command. You see, it often happens that if you eat and drink you will be far from merry.

A POSSIBLE CURE.
A company of Irish girls drove the militant suffragettes from Belfast and gave them a sound beating into the bargain. It would be unusual to speak of fighting the devil with fire, yet Belfast may get a valuable hint from the Belfast incident.

"STRIPE" POKER.
A group of young men and women, caught in a raid of a west side residence and taken to the University Police Station, were accused of playing "stripe" poker. Even if what the police say is true, it is not likely that the young people were caught with the goods on them!

HIGHLY UNPOETIC.
The world is a shop in which you work hard until you can save enough money to buy a one-dollar watch or an alarm clock so that you will know what time to return to work. Some day you will oversleep and that is the day they will not let you eat. You are to learn from all this that you must keep awake if you like food.

INDUSTRIAL.
A system of storm drains will largely increase the value of a big tract of land at Long Beach. No city on the Coast has more to gain by water front improvement. Already it has a large area wonderfully adapted to industrial plants, and business is booming in that direction. The more available sites of this character which Long Beach can provide the brighter will be its future.

ARE BRAIN AND NO BRAIN.
A villa is the sort of man who loses where he gains. He wins by bullets and losses by bluntness. He takes a city with arms and then invites the anger of civilization by his uncivilized conduct. Now he has Spain at his throat as well as the displeasure of England. He might get away with Mexico if he would refrain from affronting the whole world, but he doesn't seem to have the sense to stop at the right place.

A MEXICAN GUILLOTINE.
Before Dr. Guillotin of Paris invented the instrument which bears his name the public executioner cut off heads with a sword and sometimes used several blows for that purpose, thus prolonging the agony of the condemned. The invention of the doctor was, at the time it was made, a merciful one and it is even now preferable to the use of the rope, though not so merciful as electrocution.

Dr. Guillotin was one of the victims of his own invention, for during the revolution his head dropped into the basket at the Place de la Revolution, now the Place de la Concorde.

Few tears would be shed in this country if the history of France were to be repeated in Mexico and the bandits and murderers who have erected a guillotine at Concepcion del Ora be numbered among its victims.

FRANCE CRITICIZES WILSON.
French wit directed at President Wilson recently found expression in the Paris Temps. "Over the tropic of Latin-American republics," it says, "a majestic pedagogical watch with soliloquy. A magisterial doctrine, a puritan, an idealist, he has in effect notified the American-Latin republics that he will not tolerate in them either disorder or unconstitutional government. In his business of constitutional expert he must flourish his schoolmaster's ruler according to a variable discipline—pitiless to a Mexican dictator, indulgent to a stroke of state in Peru. He is one thing in Hayti, torn by the dissensions of the two Orestes, and another in the agitated republic of San Domingo. Nicaragua is in a state of siege. Venezuela writhes in the agony of a phantom revolt. Upon these situations, characteristically Latin, President Wilson imposes the Anglo-Saxon temperament while keeping Europe off in the same of the Monroe doctrine."

A GOOD CAUSE.
We note that the friends, and this means the public, of Rasthavan are invited to a reception to be held at the new home of this modest institution, No. 765 College street, Saturday, April 18, from 3 to 5 p.m. Any car on North Broadway reaches that address. So quietly has this work been organized and conducted that it has not come under general observation, yet few charitable plans in the city are so useful or productive of greater good. It has operated to save from the asylums those whose mental vision is only temporarily clouded and has been used to protect from severe and debilitating treatment the mildly and harmlessly insane, the weak-willed and the epileptic. Already several cures have been recorded under the most happy circumstances, and it is a place where the poor could go, especially women in distress, without any means of self-support excepting the little work they are able to do. We bespeak for it the friendship of the city.

WATCH US GROW!

Yesterday there tied up at the new wharf in San Pedro one of the great steamers of the Hawaiian line, and when she departs it will be to discharge her cargo at the Pacific terminus of the Tehuantepec road, from the Atlantic terminus of which steamers run regularly to Gulf and Northern Atlantic ports.

As soon as the Panama Canal shall be open for business the steamers of this line will run regularly every few days between San Pedro and New York and Gulf of Mexico ports, stopping at Corinto and at one or more Mexican and Central American ports en route. Bananas, coffee, crude rubber and other tropical products of Honduras and Nicaragua will reach Corinto by lake and rail and, by the ships of the Hawaiian Company, be brought here or to the Atlantic Coast by the canal. In 1909 the trade of Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama with the United States was $90,000,000. Ninety-two per cent. of the exports of Honduras came to the United States and 63 per cent. of her imports came from this country.

Nicaragua, north of its lake, and Southern Honduras are mountainous countries; wheat, cattle, timber and mineral countries that are now but sparsely populated and that invite American capital and American immigrants. Their development will open an immense commerce between the Pacific ports—for they have a Pacific nor Gulf ports—with both California and New York.

There will probably be four great lines of steamers running from California through the canal. One to Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires, one to New Orleans and Pensacola, one to New York and one to European ports.

Many of the steamers plying between Hongkong and San Francisco will also call here, for we are more than 400 miles nearer Panama than San Francisco, and as much nearer by rail to Arizona, Southern Nevada, Southern Utah and Northwestern Mexico.

Los Angeles will become at once one of the great maritime cities of this hemisphere. Wait a bit and watch her grow.

A NATIONAL REFERENDUM.
If Senators Newlands and Pittman of Nevada and Senator Mark Smith of Arizona will stand firm for the interests of the Pacific Coast and not make the mistake of sacrificing those interests to a desire to stand well with President Wilson they may be able to prevent the disgraceful surrender to Great Britain which the passage of the bill repealing the exemption of coastwise vessels from tolls at Panama would involve.

Why not postpone the consideration of the repeal bill until the December session of Congress? Even if the canal should be open for traffic in July, no great number of coastwise ships would pass through it between July and December. Or a short act could be put through suspending the operation of the exemption clause for a few months a year, until the sense of the country can be taken upon the repeal bill.

Even the most ardent advocate of the policy of "preserving the honor" of the United States by acquiescence in Great Britain's demands will concede that the American people have a right to a voice in determining whether our national "honor" will be stained by giving exemption from canal tolls to our own ships, trading between our own ports, through our own canal, built with our own money, in our own territory.

The obtaining of their decision by means of a national referendum will be very simple. If conclusions can be drawn from the expressions of public men and newspapers of all parties, all over the Union, it is probable that in August or September next, notwithstanding conventions or direct primaries of Republicans, of Democrats, of Progressives and of Socialist parties throughout the United States will adopt plans for repealing the Wilson policy of repeal of the tolls exemption law. Where this should be the case the canvass could proceed on other issues, for whatever the result, the Congressmen elected would be so pledged against the Wilson policy that he would not dare to vote in Congress to sustain it.

And where any convention or any candidate of whatever party declared in favor of sustaining the President, it is most probable that the result would be in favor of upholding the American rather than the British view of the demands upon our "national honor."

ON TO THE FARM!

Why does any honest, intelligent man loaf about the deadfalls and run the risk of being bounced away from the free-lunch tables and attend upon the mouthings of soap-box orators and sleep in the station-house when, on a dozen farms that he can reach in a day's travel, he can find a quiet quarter and three good meals a day and $30 a month and gain a knowledge of farming that will enable him, with a year's savings, to start a farm of his own?

Very hard work and inconvenience and loneliness have been weeded out of farm life in the last decade. Rural free delivery brings letters and newspapers to the front gate. The telephone furnishes facilities for chatting with friends miles away. Kerosene lamps do not require to be cleaned and filled for the house, or lanterns carried around the barn, for a flood of electric light is obtained by pressing a button. Water is pumped, and wood is sawed, and milk is churned with electric power from a nearby town or from a waterfall on the farm, and even the cows may be milked by machinery. The farmer is no longer compelled to rely upon experiments to know what fertilizer to apply, or what kind of plant food exists in the soil, for he can send by parcel post a bag of earth to a government agricultural experiment station and be informed without cost what fertilizer to use, and what to plant and when to plant.

The census returns for 1910 show that the value of all the farm lands in the United States increased 100 per cent. between 1900 and 1910, while the number of farms in the same time increased but 10 per cent., and the acreage under cultivation but 5 per cent. In 1900 the average value of farms was $15.60 per acre. In 1910 it was $32.50 per acre. In the same decade the value of farm buildings increased 75 per cent. and of implements and machinery 108 per cent. The growth of population in cities and towns unaccompanied by a similar increase of the farming population has produced larger demand and higher prices for farm and garden products. Los Angeles had 100,000 population in 1900, now she has 600,000, but while the farms which supply her people with their produce may have doubled or even trebled in production, they have not sextupled or quintupled or even quadrupled.

The late Senator Stanford, who was one of California's great farmers, said: "Agriculture is an occupation that elevates the mind to a genial communion with surrounding nature; it is closely connected with the material wants of the whole human family; it develops and beautifies the earth; it produces a healthy, thrifty and virtuous population and, more than any other pursuit known to man, adds to the pride, prosperity and strength of a State."

The ancient Hebrews would have remained barbarians if they had not been taken down into Egypt and taught farming. Agriculture brought the ancient Greeks and Romans out of savagery into a splendid civilization where art and literature flourished. There would have been no Phidias, no Pericles, no Socrates, no Cicero and no Caesar but for agriculture. It was well said by the late Rev. Samuel B. Bell: "Gold is not wealth; it is but its convenient representative. Commerce is not wealth; it simply exchanges it. Manufactures and art are not wealth; they recombine it. Agriculture is the prolific mother of wealth. The rest simply handle it when it is produced and delivered into their hands. The earth breeds savages; agriculture breeds enlightened nations. It breeds houses and ships, temples and seminaries, manufactures, sculpture, painting and music. It would be folly to speak of the existence, beauty or power of any of these without agriculture. The thermometer of civilization rises and falls as drives or pauses the plow."

Young man, there is a ranch in this part of the country that needs your strong arms. Go there. The cows will never drag you down with their society, and when the men utter their triumphant cackle you may be sure that she has laid an egg. She would scorn to lie about it. Go to work, young man, on a ranch and skip the city for a year or so.

PROHIBITION IN RUSSIA.

Russia is wrestling with the temperance problem, too, and although it will be many a long day before prohibition becomes an issue in the Duma, yet the government is already awake to the necessity of training the country to moderation.

Vodka is the great drink of the country, a strong stimulant on the order of brandy, and it is regarded as almost a duty to get drunk on saints' days and holidays in Russia. They insist that they could not live but for vodka during the long, hard winters in many parts of Russia. But this same vodka is probably one of the most serious drawbacks to the progress of the country; its users become stupid, sullen creatures when they should be in the prime of manhood.

So now the manufacture and sale of vodka are to be regulated, and there will be fewer specified times when it is come to fault for a man to be drunk.

The Easter celebrations will, however, remain one of them. It is a time-honored custom in Russia to break the long Lenten fast with an orgy of banqueting lasting several days, during which everyone stuffs himself like a Strasburg goose to the point of genuine suffering. Everyone gets ill, many die, just from the overeating, and yet nothing of the assault and battery and even murders that take place through the drinking. But it is the custom; one must celebrate these holy feasts in style.

Our own orgy of new and fashionable clothing, with its church millinery parade, is just as funny, but not so deadly.

SLEEPING IN A DRY RIVER BED.

An unsympathetic jury found "Capt." Frank Kelly guilty of sleeping in the bed of the Los Angeles River. He will appeal on several grounds.

1. That he was not guilty of sleeping, for he was wide awake when arrested.
2. That there was no bed in or to the Los Angeles River.
3. That there is no river.
4. That there could not be a river bed unless there was water in it, and if there was water in it, man, not being amphibious like a crocodile or a duck, or web-footed like an Oregonian, could not sleep therein.
5. That a city ordinance which prohibits a citizen of the United States from enjoying a nap in the dry bed of an extinct river is in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which secures to every citizen of the United States all the rights of any citizen of any State.

6. That the complaint on which "Capt." Kelly was arrested and tried was dum vivimus possumus, noli mi tangere, a vinculo matrimonii and ouster from a homestead, and should have been dismissed.

Feeling an appeal to the State Court of Appeals the captain may apply to the Federal court for a writ of habeas corpus. An effort will be made to secure the services of Counselor Job Harriman to appear in behalf of "Capt." Kelly. The effort will consist of passing the hat at the labor-union gatherings. The workers who contributed $15,000 to remunerate Job for counseling Darrow for advising the McNamara to plead guilty will surely not object to donating a substantial sum to establish the inalienable, constitutional, God-given right of a captain of the unemployed to snooze in the dry bed of a discarded river.

BRINGING GOOD GIFTS.
Some persons employed in a mechanical capacity may be experts with their hands and perfectly willing to devote time and energy to the positions given them and still, without any obvious reason, they seem to fall, where others who are less capable sometimes succeed. The peculiarity of acceptable service is that it makes large demands on character. Some persons are assuring. They build confidence. They inspire trust. They create atmosphere. That is, they contrive to impart to their work, their environment and their associates some of that essence of themselves which makes them what they are. If they are hopeful, bright and of good intentions they put all of these happy qualities into what they do and into the air about them so that their associates get a good feeling from them and like to have them around. The person with the luck to express character has half of life's battle won at the start.

Diversified Population.
[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times:] With a total population in the British Empire of more than 410,000,000, Sir J. Athelstone Baines said that outside of the United Kingdom and certain other parts are lands of 32,000,000 inhabitants showing more or less different races or color, every 10,000 persons averaging 389 white, 38 mixed, 8470 brown, 401 yellow, 46 Malay, 6 Polynesian, 633 black and 3 red. Outside of India, each 10,000 in these lands contains 290 white, 1079 brown and 5046 black. In Australia, about 5383 in 10,000 are white; Canada, nearly as many; New Zealand, 94 per cent.; South America, 22 per cent. and India, only 6 per 1000.

HOW HE DOES IT.

Extract from the Diary of a Senator.
[New York Evening Post:] So I went to see the Schoolmaster. He greeted me warmly.

"Concerning this bill for the regulation of interstate baseball," he said:

"Mr. Schoolmaster," I said, "let me make my position clear at the start. I am unalterably opposed to the bill."

"Your incisive statement of opinion affords me extraordinary pleasure," said the Schoolmaster. "That is why I sent for you. I want you to help me ascertain the truth. In my perplexity I have been saying to myself, 'What are the effects of a bill which elicits such vigorous opposition from a statesman of such exceptional insight and knowledge?' I was sure you could make things plain to me."

It struck me that he had a fine, clear eye. "That is what I have been saying to myself," continued the Schoolmaster. "I have said, 'There must be some unanswerable argument which impels a man of that caliber to cling to a position which has been denounced as viciously reactionary by the leading newspapers of his State.'"

I said, "Mr. Schoolmaster, may I see the editorial in question?" He handed me a marked copy of my home paper. I was struck by the firm lines of his mouth.

"I have always admired definiteness of conviction," said the Schoolmaster. "I have been all the more impressed by your courteous attitude on the bill because of the numerous telegrams that have reached me from influential persons in your State protesting against your attitude."

"May I see the telegram?" I said. He handed me a sheet of yellow telegraph sheets. I was struck with the sense of power in his long, lean fingers.

"Of course," said the Schoolmaster. "I have said to myself that you must take orders from your conscience and not from your constituents. And all the more because you have against you a majority of your own party, of whom a sufficient number have declared in favor of the bill to make its passage certain."

"How do I know that, Mr. Schoolmaster?" I said.

He handed me a batch of letters written on Congressional stationery. I studied them a little while, and my duty became clear to me.

"Mr. Schoolmaster," I said, "I will vote for the bill."

"My dear Senator," he said earnestly, "let me implore you not to be overhasty in this matter. It is less your vote than your assistance towards my own enlightenment."

But I would not be dissuaded. "I am determined to vote for the bill," I said.

He pulled out his watch. "Unfortunately," he said, "I have an engagement, else I would pursue the subject with you."

"My mind is quite made up," I said. The Schoolmaster thought a moment.

"I think you have convinced me," he said. "It has been a pleasure to co-operate with you. Good-day."

He has a very strong chin.

HARD WORK.

WALT MASON IN THE TIMES.

It's hard to swat the lyre redbot, and keep the blamed thing twanging, when you've got a cold, with aches untold around your brainpan hanging. I have the grip, and bark and yip, until I scare the neighbors, still I must do, the long day through, my "literary" labors. My lungs are lame and all my frame seems sore and dislocated; I cough and sneeze and bite my teeth in anguish-unabated. Yet I must raise my lugged lays, some optimism springing, and urge the toffs who have no coughs to keep on dancing, singing. My eyes are red, my aching head, feels like a football steady, and when I speak my pulleys creak, my voice is hoarse and weedy; I sob, I pant, kerchoo and rant, I whoop and squeak and strangle, my works are punk throughout my trunk, my nerves are all a-jangle. I punch the lyre, but there's no fire or rapture in my swatting; the winged steed is lame indeed, and stumbles when he's trotting. Don't read too hard the halting bard, or load him down with curls; he'll not know how much of woe he may have on his person.

KILLING THE JUDICIAL RECALL.

[Detroit Free Press:] The recall of judges is possible in California. How the thing works is about to be demonstrated in Los Angeles. Judge Willis of that city recently sentenced Charles H. Guyton, negro, to thirty years' imprisonment after Guyton had been convicted of stealing 10 cents and a kiss from a young white girl whom he had held up on the public highway.

Numbers of tender-hearted women took offense at what they chose to term the severity of Judge Willis, and immediately, without further investigation of the case, began circulation of petitions to depose Willis from the bench.

It appears that Guyton is a negro of exceedingly bad character. On the day that he held up and robbed and kissed the white woman, for which offenses he was tried, and of which deeds he was convicted, Guyton held up two other white women and criminally attacked two negro girls. In addition he threatened to kill the white woman he kissed unless she submitted to his filthy and repulsive caresses.

In view of all these allegations the sentence imposed by Judge Willis looks like a measure taken to protect the decent womanhood of Los Angeles. But this is evidently not the view of the sentimentalists and emotionalists. They want to sacrifice an upright magistrate for a depraved negro thief. If they succeed their attempt they will not elevate the judicial recall in the esteem of sane voters of either sex. They will rather make of it a hissing and a by-word.

Stating It Mildly.

[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph:] Speaking of neighborly feuds, Congressman Raymond B. Stevens of New Hampshire recalled a grievance entertained by a farmer named Brown. Brown, it seems, had a difference with a neighbor over a boundary line, and after six months of vocal scrapping across a ten-acre lot the dispute finally reached such a stage that a lawyer was consulted. "I want ye ter write him a letter," said Brown to the lawyer, "and tell him that the good-yer foolishness has got ter stop. I'd write it myself only I ain't got the legal beft ter do it."

"I guess it can be done all right," returned the lawyer, thoughtfully. "What do you want me to say to him?"

"Wait," said Brown, after a moment's reflection, "ye might begin by telling him that he's the meanest, derdest, lyin'est, thiev'in'est, leapestest, curdest of a crook in ten counties, an' then kind o' work up ter what we really think of him."

"My dear, there's too much caloric in this soup." "There! I told the cook you would rather have it seasoned with parsley."—[Baltimore American.]

The speed Microbe. [To the Editor of the Times:] If there is anything more needed in this city of present, than vigorous effective microbe, I do not know what it is. Criminals, lunatics, degenerates, and incompetents, mingling with the respectable and legitimate portions of the population with such regard for the rights of the corner, knocked down and injured an aged man, and a fine of $50, was treated with extreme leniency. Such people should be prohibited from running down the streets.

There is absolutely no occasion for the fearful haste with which all those who run motor cars, the night cars are becoming a serious menace to the safety of the city. It is generally not of such supreme importance for the moment, that life and limb should be sacrificed to the pleasure of a few minutes' run.

Those who run pleasure cars are for the most part, out merely for the fun of it. They are not in a hurry to get to work, and they are not in a hurry to get home. They are in a hurry to get to the place where they can have a good time.

The hurrying of a whole year, cannot away with a single life, and the hurrying of a single life, cannot away with a single life. Let everybody begin a campaign to "slow down."

The Dog Policeman. [To the Editor of the Times:] [To the Editor of the Times:] For several years there has lived in the vicinity of the beautiful Arroyo Park a little griffin dog, who was the companion of a homeless woman, a woman who had been driven from her home by a misfortune. In his voiceless gratitude to the dog, who had been his only friend and his only comfort, he had been his only friend and his only comfort.

When the dog died, the woman was left alone and homeless. She was a poor, old woman, and she had no one to care for her. She was a poor, old woman, and she had no one to care for her.

The dog had been her only friend and her only comfort. She had been his only friend and his only comfort. She had been his only friend and his only comfort.

...this we do not dispute.

...Mr. Bowling states: "It is one

...He should have added that it is

...As for State-wide prohibition being

...surely comprehend. Mr. Bowling

...surely knows that until the gold-

"SOB SISTER" MAY HAVE RUINED CALVO'S CAREER.

Too Much Publicity.

ON A BENCH in a dark corner of the Angels clubhouse sat Jacinto Calvo, Dillon's young Cuban outfielder. He had just left the field with a three-base swat to his credit, but there were no signs of joy written on his face. It would be hard to picture a much-dejected looking player than the little Cuban, huddled on that bench.

All day long he had heard nothing but "42 Panama hats, manicured finger nails, seven suits of clothes" and similar jeers from the players and fans. Here was a victim of a "sob-sister" who had been the last of that sensational tale of the matinee idol with automobiles, servants and a fondness for the fair sex. It was a crushing blow and the story has passed up and down the Coast League like the vibration of an express train on steel rails.

When Calvo makes a bad play or falls in a pinch, the leather-jungled fans in the bleachers will shoot this matinee idol stuff at him hot and heavy. Ball players will take it up and ride him all through the league. Many a wonderful young ball player has been spoiled by the pen of a "sob-sister."

Calvo will have a hard battle to outlive this story which is bound to hurt his chances. It is one of the tragedies of the diamond enacted off the field.

SKINNER MAN, SAYS MANTELL.

Would Out Faversham for Our Representation.

Shakespearean Festival. In
Cause of Squabble.

Brown's in Towns and Big
Plan Is Afoot.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

I have at hand a note of appeal from no less a personage than Bob Mantell. And it comes just after I thought we were through with Shakespeare for the season.

No, don't get alarmed, for he isn't coming back. As a matter of fact he wants to keep going—England being the objective point.

To be definite, it seems that the powers that be have decided that William Faversham shall represent America at the Shakespearean festival in England. Hence, Mantell's wrath.

You see, Faversham is an Englishman, and when you come to think of it it really isn't quite right that an Englishman should represent us. Fanny part of it is that most of the successful players come from the other side.

Neither is one, though he has been here so long that we almost forget about it.

While Mantell might have liked to be the one selected, he doesn't say so. In his opinion Otis Skinner should have been selected as the representative American actor. Mantell wants us all to boost for Skinner.

I quite agree with Mantell. Not only is Skinner one of us, but when it comes down to cases, I don't know of a better actor than he is. There are some stage people who are as well known, I mention John Drew and John Mason off hand, but for all-around excellence in all sorts of roles, I think Skinner takes first place.

Charles H. Brown, treasurer of the Western States Vaudeville Association, which books the Hippodrome attractions, is in town, going over to get details for the new theater, which is to go up in the southwest part of town. He expects to be on the job for several days.

Someone was so interested in reading Tally's midweek notice yesterday that it never did get into the paper, so I rise to remark that next week they are going to put on Burr McIntosh's "In Missouri."

And while on the subject of the lower-Broadway picture houses, I might mention that yesterday was Mary Pickford's birthday, and by way of celebration, after the last show, the put on for her benefit her new film, "Toss of the Storm Country."

The public may not see it for a month or so, but the little lady declared it was the best film she ever helped make. A big bunch of picture people, including Director Griffith, were invited guests.

Being up at that end of town, I couldn't help but see Woodley's, which reminds me that the genial proprietor had sent his automobile to the junk heap the other day.

It was funny to hear Mr. Woodley talk about it. Seems he was bowling along in his big car, with the family, when right in front of him, without any warning, a Ford made a sharp turn.

Says Woodley, "It was a choice between hitting the Ford or the curb, as I chose the curb, as my car would have cut right through the baby machine."

Frank Egan tells me that he is negotiating in the East for a bunch of children's shows to put on at the Little Theater. He is going to start the ball rolling shortly with a local product, I believe.

A note from Jack Belgrave, formerly with the Morocco stock company, tells me that he has left for Honolulu, where he will become a member of the Elton Theater company.

Oiga Metherale is coming to the Orpheum shortly and will put on the third act of "Sappho." She writes me that she hopes she will all road bar, as it helps business wonderfully.

Which calls to mind that "Sappho" was a failure in New York until a certain reporter, after being turned down when he wanted an interview, tried to get revenge by telling how salacious the play was. Right away it became a big success.

Fritz Scheff told me the other day that she has a portable dressing room, which is really her home. "I am in the dressing-room more hours a day than in any other one place, so I insist on having it as attractive as possible. It is no end of help in my work, for my surroundings have a marked effect on my disposition."

Some enterprising rascal called on Lester Fountain at the Hippodrome yesterday and suggested that he buy some eggs to give to his patrons at the Easter Sunday shows. He nearly collapsed when he discovered that to make good his end of the contract he would have to supply 15,000 eggs, that being the average attendance for the five shows Sunday.

Remember "The Escape" by Paul Armstrong, which had such a run at the Burbank? They have made moving pictures of it and they are tried out at Cland's, in Pasadena, with city officials and the members of the company making the film, as guests of Manager J. C. Nelson.

LEWIS, SHOOTING CHAMP, IS WINNER.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) April 9.—Bert Lewis, champion amateur trap shot of the United States, today successfully defended his title to maintain the Dupont trophy when he defeated Harrison Kennecott of Chicago, the challenger, and thirty other shooters. Lewis and Frank Fuller of Milwaukee tied with ninety-two out of 100 targets. In the shoot-off Lewis broke twenty-five straight. Lewis won the trophy at Atlantic City last summer.

She doesn't look like "A Little Devil," does she?

Yet this is Fritzi Scheff, who comes to the Orpheum next week and on whom Padarewski conferred the coveted sobriquet. "And every one has so misconstrued it ever since," walls the petite prima donna, who is really one of the most amiable of stars.

Well, Well, Well!

HAMILTON JUMPS FROM BROWNS TO FEDERALS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST LOUIS, April 9.—Karl Hamilton, left-handed pitcher of the St. Louis Americans, jumped his contract with the St. Louis Americans today and left for Kansas City with Manager Stovall of the Kansas City Federals.

George Stovall's raid on the St. Louis Americans was made with the sanction of President Gilmore of the Federal League, Gilmore said today.

"Organized ball tried to wreck Stovall's club and took away Blanding and Baumgardner, who had signed legal contracts with him," said Gilmore. "Therefore I gave the Kansas City club permission to deal with members of the St. Louis team whether they had signed contracts or not, and thus give it a chance to build up again."

"If organized ball goes to court over Hamilton and the courts give him back to the Browns, then the same decision will return Blanding, Baumgardner and Hogue to us. Besides Hamilton, there are four or five members of the St. Louis Americans wanted by Stovall and he has his full sanction to get them if he can."

Hamilton had a three year contract with the local Americans and had played one season with them. Before leaving for Kansas City Hamilton said he laid his offer from the Kansas City Federals before President Hedges of the St. Louis Americans and gave him a chance to meet the terms. This, he said, Hedges refused to do.

"Hamilton will not play with the Kansas City Federals," said President Hedges of the St. Louis Americans today. "He signed a three-year contract with St. Louis. You may quote me as saying that the National Commission, American League and National League will do everything in their power to prevent him from playing with the Kansas City club."

WASHINGTON, CALIFORNIA AND STANFORD MEET.

Northern Crew Heavy Favorites
Because of Experience Gained and Reputation Made at Foughkeepsie
Last Year—Washington Freshmen
Tight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, April 9.—Saturday morning the rowing championship of the Pacific Coast will be decided on the Oakland Estuary by eight from Washington, Stanford and California universities.

The reputation made last season by the Washington eight has made them the favorites of the regatta, and neither of the local rivals is sanguine of a win. Coach Connar of Washington is confident that the northern oarsman will carry off the championship.

The Washington crew averages slightly over a pound lighter than the 1913 eight, but is said to be fully as fast as the former winners. Four veterans have points in the shell. The average weight is 171½ pounds.

Stanford's boat will pull to the starting line manned by a crew averaging 172 pounds, a pound less than last year. In addition to four veteran men at the oars, the Cards will have a veteran coxswain, a valuable asset which neither of the other crews possesses.

The Golden Bear, which is to carry the California rowers, is to have a crew averaging 172 pounds, two pounds lighter than that which shipped last season. Four veterans will also find places in this eight so that in the matter of experienced men at the oars the crews are equal.

Washington's freshman crew will be the lightest eight upon the water; they average 171 pounds and to add to the disparity they will pull a coxswain five pounds heavier than Stanford's and fifteen pounds heavier than California's. The babe eight from Stanford averages 174 pounds, the same as the California first-year bunch.

The freshman race will precede the varsity contest, which is set for 9:30 a.m.

California crews follow: Varsity—Howard, coxswain; You may quote me as saying that the National Commission, American League and National League will do everything in their power to prevent him from playing with the Kansas City club."

BIG TROUT HAVE BEEN BEACHED.

Game Warden Pritchard left last night for Little Bear Creek to investigate a report of stranded trout.

A complaint was made by fishermen from that district that some of the big lake trout had gone up the creek to spawn and have been unable to return owing to the low water in the creek.

Mr. Pritchard took with him nets and seines with which to assist the fish back into the lake, should the report prove to be true.

Why Not?

POMONA COLLEGE BEATS L.A. HIGH.

IT TAKES 'EM TEN INNINGS TO GET AWAY WITH IT.

Harry Kingman Tries to Come Back on the Mound for the Run Walks Two and Uncorks Two Wild Pitches in One Inning—Vawter Scored Winning Run.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, April 9.—Pomona College had the battle of the season in winning from the Los Angeles High School team, 5 to 4, in ten innings. Kingman, who started in the box for the Sage Hens, was as wild as a March hare, and two walks, two errors and one small blunder were sufficient excuse for the three runs scored by Los Angeles in the opening frame.

Pomona scored two in the second, tied up the game in the fifth with a lone ace and came out in front in the sixth with another one spot. Two errors, a passed ball and a hit batsman allowed the High School to tie things up in the eighth. Vawter scored the winning run for Pomona in the tenth, when with two down he came in from third on Kingman's hard drive to the guardian of that sack. Capt. Becker is leading his team at bat with a percentage of .464 for ten games. Two hits out of as many trips to the plate was today's contribution. The score:

Pomona, 5; hits, 10; errors, 5. Los Angeles High, 4; hits, 6; errors, 6.

Batteries—Kingman, Daniels and Elliott; Schmitz, Cowan and Condon.

COVEY WILL MEET WHITE AT TENNIS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
TUXEDO PARK (N. Y.) April 9.—George F. Covey, the Englishman, who lost the court tennis championship of the world a few weeks ago to Jay Gould, American amateur champion, will meet Jack White, professional, of the New York Tennis and Racquet Club here, on April 12.

Covey will concede White half fifteen, and a very fast match is looked for by tennis enthusiasts.

WOMAN AND THE LAW

Editorial.

By Dr. Anna Howard Shaw
President National American Woman Suffrage Association.

It has been said that Dr. Shaw has no respect for the law. She has also been accused of encouraging militancy. Her arguments, as she gives them in this editorial, show the fallacy of such charges, while the soundness of her message would appeal to even the Anti-Movement.

ASHES OF DESIRE

Story.

By James Hopper.

To be able to graphically and clearly suggest many things in a few lines was the gift of De Maupassant. This talent is evidenced in Mr. Hopper's story, which tells of a man who permitted a supreme moment in connection with a great love to pass out of his life. After twenty years the sight of the lady's name sends his mind back and the big question "If" is the keynote of his reminiscences. It is an unusual story of heart throbs.

MY SKIRMISH WITH MADNESS

By Morgan Robertson.

Illustrated by Oscar Cesare.

Just one look at the drawings which illustrate this article is sufficient to create an eager desire to read it. And like the illustrations, Mr. Robertson's copy-ences can be gone over again and again. Each time a new and amusing situation is sure to present itself. There has never, perhaps, been an experience equal to Mr. Robertson's. Because of his belief that he was bordering on insanity, he took himself with the remainder of sanity to the Psychopathic Ward of the famous Bellevue Hospital. The details of his confinement are excruciatingly comical. At the same time there is an undercurrent of pathos for the miserable and hopeless cases and a glowing tribute to the keepers for their patience, strength and kindness.

THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK

Serial Story.

By George Barr McCutcheon.

The plot in this installment doesn't exactly thicken, but the amusement does. The strong, independent American red blood that flows through Prince Robin's blue veins has begun to assert itself, and it would seem as though there were fireworks ahead for our self-confident Millionaire Blithers.

AS LEANS THE TWIG

Cartoon.

By Anthony Euwer.

This cartoon and the lines which it decorates are so good-naturedly humorous and clever that even the subject of it—Secretary Bryan—has a laugh in store for him.

VILLANELLE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE

Poem.

By Walter Adolf Roberts.

Beautiful lines inspired by the green-robed Spring which came to Washington Square one April night.

The Cover Design will be appreciated by even those devoid of humor. It is grotesque in its treatment, but so cleverly done that it is a work of art. It is also timely, as it appears when the Easter fashions are given their first outing.

I believe that every woman has the right to remain young as long as it is possible to do so, and that she should use all precautions and remedies for the retention of a beautiful face and figure, just as she should watch her memory and constantly improve her mind.

Since "a thing of beauty is a joy forever," everything which is beautiful or can be made so, should receive all possible cultivation, not alone because of the impression which it makes upon others, but for its own sake. The beauty of woman is not a thing for coquetry. It has an influence upon all who behold it, just as a fine painting, a landscape, a scene, or an exquisite air in music, therefore should beauty be fostered, wherever it may have even a small measure of cultivation, not alone because of the impression which it makes upon others, but for its own sake. GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: Save the pieces of old linen, shirts and table linen, hem them and wash them thoroughly. These then devote a convenient drawer in kitchen or pantry to the pieces and you will always have at hand cloths in which to wrap your vegetables, your meats and vegetables, when putting them away in refrigerator or cooling closet.

There is a thing of beauty in a woman's face, and it is the eyes. The eyes are the windows of the soul, and they should be made so, and that she should have all precautions and remedies for the retention of a beautiful gaze, just as she should have every necessary and constantly improved.

am a poor man married to a beautiful young wife. A widow in our town has asked her out to ride on several occasions. We had a scene over it when I heard she was now openly defying me, declaring she will go every time she is invited, and if I don't like it—well, provide a man to take her out or shut my eyes to it. What can I do?
A. A.
Turn your attention to the man in the case. Tell him to tell his wife to stop joy-riding or you will make the request through the public prints as a preliminary step toward ending it. No man is so wealthy or so strong that he can afford to ignore public indignation.

She's Too Dreamy.
Dear Miss Libbey: I am a mother anxious for your advice. I have a son of 25 who has fallen in love with a very pretty but frivolous young woman of the same age, who thinks of nothing but fine clothes and parading the streets. We are a saving family and I fear if my son persists in marrying this girl he will be unhappy and never be able to get along. What can I do to save him? She has as many as three or four suitors, and as many fine dresses to go with them. I am alarmed. My mother heart is heavy.
MRS. J.

Where two love each other devotedly it is rarely best to try to part them. Love can accomplish wonders. The girl may turn over a new leaf and be the most prudent of housewives after marriage. The dresses and hats may be clever made-over and worn if any money expended on them. Make friends with your boy's sweetheart. With patience her to follow in your footsteps.
LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY SYDNEY FORD.
Miss Abbie Chapin, who is perhaps the best-known missionary to China locally, the family home having been in Los Angeles for years, addressed the Women's Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church yesterday. Miss Chapin, who was born in China of missionary parents and has practically spent her life there, is now home on furlough. She has been out in Arizona recuperating. It was in this same First Congregational Women's Missionary Society that Miss Chapin made farewell twenty years ago when she was about to sail for China after having received her education in this country. Her work in China has been untiring, earnest and wonderfully inspiring. It is not too much to say that she is the best-loved missionary in all that great empire. It will be remembered that at the time of the Boxer uprising it was reported in Los Angeles that Miss Chapin was killed. Happily, the rumor proved unfounded and, for her magnificent work among the soldiers at that time, she was decorated with a gold medal by King Edward VII of England. Her self-sacrifice and her love for her countrymen and women of riding miles in a springless cart over wretched roads, when the thermometer hovers around zero and her wonderful magnetic power is best illustrated by the fact that her quarters in the compound are simply as warm as a native and the Chinese claim her as absolutely their own. Her district is 150 miles south of Peking and it extends over a territory 100 by 150 miles, thickly dotted with villages.

Miss Chapin's comments on conditions in China were listened to with keen interest as, from her perfect familiarity with the country, its past history, and its people, she is an authority. She spoke of the results of the revolution there and the new atmosphere it has created, which has developed new points of contact, giving splendid opportunities for missionaries to come into touch with the natives as never before. For instance, when the city where she is located was looted and burned, 500 Chinese fled the first night of the riot to the mission compound for protection and from then on, 100 to 150 came every night while the reign of terror lasted. A banker who lost $240,000 during the looting sought refuge at the compound and some of the leading men of the city came and asked help from the missionaries in the way of providing hospital accommodations for wounded soldiers. This threw down the bars and, when some of the teachers from the government schools were stranded in the compound, a friendship was formed which was lasting.

Miss Chapin told of an interesting incident after the looting of the city when a committee of three was appointed to go to Peking to meet an audience with the President, Yuan Shi Kai, to ask government help in restoring the city. They asked the advice of a missionary as to the best way of approaching the President. He inquired what their idea was and they replied that they had planned to go before Yuan Shi Kai weeping. The missionary, with the lack of sentiment which may be developed among Americans, suggested a better and more effective way. He advised that they tabulate their ideas in such form that they could be presented to the President in practical shape. The committee listened to the suggestion of the missionary, expressed their gratitude and acted upon it with the result that they got loans from the government to rebuild the city.

Miss Chapin sounded a note of warning concerning the flood of atheistic literature that is pouring into China from Japan and America. It is much harder to introduce Christianity ten years hence. She pointed out that there is a tremendous crisis just now and the church should be alive to seize without delay its opportunity, while the Chinese are so eager to absorb new ideas.

Mothers' Congress Today.
The annual meeting and reciprocity day of the First District Congress of Mothers will be held today in Symphony Hall, Biscanard building, beginning at 10 o'clock. The hostesses for the day will be the ladies of which Mrs. J. D. Taylor is president; Long Beach, Mrs. Charles F. Sawyer, president; Glendale, Mrs. J. P. Pedal, president; and Redondo, Mrs. E. B. Forbes, president.

Mrs. George O. Monroe, president of the district congress, will preside and will give an address. Other speakers will be Miss Virginia Peace, John A. Bettin, Mrs. J. D. Taylor and Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale. There will be reports from various committees and election of officers.

Galpin Shakespeare Club.
The Galpin Shakespeare Club will celebrate the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth on April 25 at Cumnock Hall. About Moles.

I HAVE had several letters about moles and a treatment for them. I can not give one general treatment for moles, for the reason that moles differ so greatly in kind and size. Sometimes they are so slight that they are satirically called "beauty spots"; these are sometimes raised above the skin and sometimes on the skin. These facial blemishes and other discolorations must be treated according to their specific character. Meticulousness, if skillfully applied, is the safest and most effectual remedy, when they are of a serious or chronic nature.

A fleshy mole which stands out prominently on face or neck, can be removed by trying it closely, as near the root as possible, with a silk thread or a hair. This ligature stops the supply of nutriment and in a few days the mole will shrivel, turn black and drop off, leaving almost no scar. It should not be pricked or irritated.

When discolorations are of a trivial or superficial character, even of long standing, the daily use of the following freckle specific will bleach and sometimes entirely remove them.

FRECKLE SPECIFIC.
Distilled water—Six ounces.
Glycerine—Two ounces.
Dextrine—One-half ounce.
Glycol—One-half ounce.
Oxychloride of bismuth—40 grains.
Corrosive sublimate—8 grains.
This is a very powerful application to be made and used with the utmost care. Dissolve the last three substances in the water, add the dextrine to the glycerine; after agitation, mingle the two mixtures and shake thoroughly, but not violently. This is to

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Municipal Efficiency Commission yesterday presented to the City Council the draft of an ordinance providing that the street department shall have full charge of back-siding and resurfacing excavations in streets and alleys, and shall charge the cost of such work to the utilities companies making the excavations. It is believed this will bring about a much better condition on paved streets.

The City Council yesterday adopted an ordinance providing for the creation of a committee to have charge of the erection of a Greek theater and a science hall and observatory in Griffith Park, through funds to be provided by Col. Griffith J. Griffith.

The Mayor returned yesterday from an inspection trip along the aqueduct. He finds the great water carrier in good condition.

The Mayor's divorce case came to an abrupt termination in Judge Shenk's court yesterday. The divorce was granted for both sides and the two principals engaged in negotiations that may result in reconciliation.

Going into court with honors even claims of the $44,000 estate of Dr. Edwin Fowler yesterday entered the third contest when the widow applied for the beautiful home as a home-stead for herself.

At the City Hall.

STREET PAVING'S BETTER UP-KEEP.

EFFICIENCY COMMISSION HAS NEW PLAN FOR THIS.

Would Provide for Street Department Resurfacing and Maintaining All Excavations in Highways, Changing Utilities, Companies for Cost of Work.

The Municipal Efficiency Commission yesterday submitted to the City Council the draft of a proposed ordinance governing excavations in public highways, which the members of the commission believe will bring about better results in street maintenance.

The main provision is that the city is authorized to resurface and maintain all excavations in the streets or alleys, charging the public utilities companies or individuals for the cost of this work, according to a schedule based on the character of the surface replaced. The charges specified in the proposed ordinance are similar to a schedule that was approved by the local utilities companies some time ago.

It is provided in this ordinance for the receiving of general and special deposits with the city for labor, material and administration expense. Inspector of Public Works Hansen, who strongly favors the adoption of this proposed ordinance, states that no appropriation by the city will be required for this work other than about $100,000 for the purchase of a steam roller. The salaries and other expenses will be provided for by the deposits made by the various companies. In fact, a revolving fund would be constituted that would carry on this work.

The decision of the Board of Public Works as to matters connected with the handling of the resurfacing is to be final, according to the ordinance, and thirteen days are allowed for the payment of charges for the work performed. The utilities companies have indicated that they will co-operate heartily in working out the plan proposed.

GREEK THEATER. PLANS MAY PROCEED.

Los Angeles is at last in a fair way of acquiring a magnificent Greek theater and a hall of science, including a fine observatory, for Griffith Park, through the generosity of Col. Griffith, donor of the park.

The City Council yesterday took a decisive step toward clearing away the obstacles that have been the chief of Col. Griffith to donate funds sufficient for these enterprises, provided he might have the opportunity to supervise the erection of the buildings he desires.

The main point of controversy has been that the Park Commission has maintained that it should have complete supervision of any buildings placed in the city park, whereas Col. Griffith wanted to have a special commission or committee appointed to take charge of the construction and management of the buildings which he proposes to pay for.

The City Council yesterday, by unanimous vote, adopted an ordinance providing for the creation of the special committee—one member to be selected by the City Council, one by the Chamber of Commerce and one by Col. Griffith. It also adopted a resolution directing the Park Commission to allow the special committee to enter the park and proceed with the construction work.

The original plan for the Greek theater provided for an outlay of about $1,000,000, but the plans that have been finally approved by Col. Griffith will require an expenditure of at least $1,000,000, while the hall of science and observatory will probably cost an equal amount.

The location selected for the Greek theater is in Vermont Canyon. The theater will have a seating capacity for 15,000 people and will provide a place for great conventions and musical festivals, etc.

The Pacific Electric now has pending a movement for the construction of an electric line on Maubert avenue, from Hollywood boulevard to Los Feliz road. This will be about a half-mile from the Greek theater, and an effort will be made to have the line extended to a convenient terminal near the theater.

INSPECTS AQUEDUCT. MAYOR HIGHLY PLEASED.

Mayor Rose returned yesterday from an inspection trip along the Los Angeles Aqueduct, having traversed the line all the way from Bishop down to the San Fernando reservoir. He is highly pleased with the condition he found along the way, and declares that the aqueduct is in just as good condition today as it was when the water was first turned in; that reports of storm damage have been greatly exaggerated, and that the immense pipe that went out of cylindrical shape when the water was shut off has fully resumed its proper shape through the pressure of the water. The Mayor witnessed the straightening of a portion of this pipe.

Work is in progress on the stoppage of the leak around the end of the Halverson Dam, and the leakage will be closed within a few days, says the Mayor. This leakage now passes through a tunnel, and the volume has not increased.

Municipal Notes.

The City Council yesterday set May 2 as the date for the election of the Frutland precinct and a part of La Grana Precinct No. 2 on the subject of annexation to the city. This election ordinance was adopted. This will be the third time this territory has voted on the subject of annexation.

The Mayor yesterday issued a proclamation designating tomorrow as Harbor Day, and urging all citizens of Los Angeles and Southern California to join in the celebration at Wilmington.

There is $1497.43 due on the branch library site at Boyle Heights for the improvement of East First street. Whether the Council shall provide for this out of general funds or the Library Board shall pay it out of the library appropriation has been a question. The City Attorney yesterday reported to the Council that the lien should be paid by the Library Board.

In accordance with the custom instituted in various cities of the United States, the Board of Public Works yesterday decided to close its office and all departments under its control from 12 to 2 o'clock today, in recognition of Good Friday.

The Mayor yesterday issued a statement in which he endorsed the city's standing exhibit, which is to open next Monday in the Bronson building, and urges citizens to visit this exhibit.

The City Council yesterday approved the recommendation that the police department supply prisoners with paper towels. These will be supplied through the city store department.

During the next ten days dead animals will be burned at the city incinerator on Santa Fe avenue. If it does not prove especially objectionable the United Phosphate Company may be allowed to dispose of its dead animals there for the remaining time of its contract with the city for collecting dead animals.

RECONCILIATION IN LAWLER CASE.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS HALTED BY NEW TURN.

Attorneys Talk Property Settlement in Mide of Sensational Hearing Which Is Deferred Until This Morning—Witness Corroborates Wholesome Kissing.

Every indication was given last night that William Eugene Lawler will in future kiss no woman but his wife, Theresa Kelly Lawler, whose suit for divorce was abruptly terminated yesterday in Judge Shenk's court when both sides announced that a reconciliation was about to be effected. Judge Shenk postponed further hearing until this morning at 10 o'clock, when it is believed the case will be dismissed.

Michael Kelly, daughter of Michael Kelly, a wealthy coal operator of Illinois, had accused her husband of various forms of cruelty, among them the kissing of other women. She also charged him with intemperance, one of the offshoots of which was to hurt the family.

Mrs. J. J. Powers, wife of Alderman Powers of Chicago, was the only witness on the stand yesterday. She corroborated all that had been said regarding Lawler's penchant for kissing other women. She testified that Lawler had tried to kiss her in a party at the Powers home, and there were thirty-five female guests.

Before the defense offered a defense, Attorney Dockweiler and Murphy asked for a delay. It is said by attorneys on both sides that the case was turned over to the clerk of the court yesterday to satisfy a judgment of $1600 awarded to Mr. Marres.

PROBATION AT NO COST.

Mrs. George H. Kane told Judge Monroe that she was willing to place her husband to be placed on probation, after it was shown he had failed to pay his debts. She was willing to do this condition to be brought about she wanted $300 down and $1 a day from her serving spouse, Judge Monroe disregarded this offer of a trade and forcing Kane to probation without forcing him to agree to the financial deal.

LEG WORTH $2000. Anna Tully, formerly a Kolb & Dill actress, was awarded judgment for $2000 by a jury in Judge Houser's court yesterday for an injury to her leg received in an elevator in the San Fernando building. She pleaded that the injury had been caused by the negligence of the building, which was later reformed to J. J. Lankershim, owner of the building, for $20,500.

GETS HIS MONEY BACK. G. E. Hazard bought 100 shares of stock at $1 a share in the Venice Captive Aero and the company, with the understanding that the company was free from debt. Later he learned that the company owed a great deal of money and that there were several attachments on its property. He sued for recovery of his money.

Toft is suing W. M. Milne for $230, the price of a ticket to Hamburg, and $3 a day since February 12, 1913, when the Ning-Po, a Chinese junk, was moored in Los Angeles harbor. Toft alleges that Milne engaged him to bring the Ning-Po from Shanghai to California in September, 1912, agreeing to pay $545 and a ticket to Hamburg.

September, 1913. In her suit for divorce yesterday she testified that she bought him a new suit of clothing for the marriage and after that he didn't work. He broke up two of her automobiles, she said, hit her in the eye, and loosened one of her gold teeth.

The next time you want to take a boy to rats," said Judge Wood, "you ought to adopt him, but never marry him."

FOUGHT HIS WIFE. SHE GETS A DIVORCE.

How a heavyweight husband nearly annihilated a featherweight wife was related in Judge Wood's court yesterday, when Rosalie C. Macklin told how impossible it was for her to get along peacefully with Austin T. Macklin. Macklin is a Pasadena cake proprietor and the marriage occurred at Monticello, Mo., October 21, 1907. Mrs. Macklin said that he was nearly always intoxicated, and that one night he threatened to shoot her. While he was brandishing a revolver she went to the telephone to call the police. He grabbed her by the arm and dragged her away from the phone, breaking her right hand and smothering her with his hands.

CHANGES VERDICT. JUDGE'S EYES OPENED.

Judge Monroe placed no credence in the statements of Fred Blay that his wife was guilty of improper relations with J. O. Leary. That day last December, when he granted her a decree of divorce, yesterday Judge Blay showed. He granted the day his wife obtained a divorce from him, she went to Arizona with O'Leary, and had a place where she lived since. Judge Monroe set aside the former decree, gave Blay a divorce, custody of the one child, and gave him, too, title to property in Glendale and in Fresno county.

JUDGE HELPS OUT. USES HIS CHECK BOOK.

Judge Monroe went from one extreme to another in the domestic relations of John G. Leffman and four children, and then pulled out his check book and gave Leffman a check for the first month's payment. On top of that Judge Monroe offered his services to help Leffman get his job back with the Pacific Electric.

The money given by Judge Monroe to Leffman is to be paid back at the rate of $5 a month, beginning with August, and Leffman promised to do it. Judge Monroe was very generous upon Leffman when he further ordered that during Christmas week Leffman was not to pay the stipulated money for support, but was to use that to buy presents for his wife and babies.

MURDER TRIAL. DEFENDANT TO TESTIFY.

Mrs. Harriet Vorndam's attempt at self-strangulation in the room of Manuel Cabral, now on trial for her murder in Judge Craig's court, while the two were living in the hotel in San Diego last year, was related yesterday. It is said that Cabral was arrested at that time, charged with an attack on Mrs. Vorndam, but was subsequently released. Cabral will take the stand in his own defense tomorrow.

Earl Hungerford, the proprietor of the place, and his wife, told of being in the room with Cabral and Mrs. Vorndam. Cabral was found lying on Cabral's bed, apparently dead, and it was his duty to call the police. The combined efforts of four people to keep her hands from her throat.

COURT PARAGRAPHS. PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

TO SATISFY JUDGMENT. John C. Wichman's widely celebrated collection of Egyptian mummies, said by him to be worth $5000, and by others to be cheap German imitations of the real thing, with no more than $40, was turned over to the clerk of the court yesterday to satisfy a judgment of $1600 awarded to Mr. Marres.

BRUSHING ASIDE TUNNEL DELAYS.

PROJECTS ARE ADVANCED WITH PUBLIC'S COMMENDATION.

Public Works Committee's Report Presented to Council and Only Changes Are Advocated—Ordinance of Intention for Second Street Tunnel Prepared—Ordered.

Movements for the advancement of the First-street and Second-street tunnel projects are coming along with pleasing frequency. The report of the Public Works Committee of the Council, as published in full in yesterday's Times, was submitted to the Council at its morning's session, and all except the first section, relating to assessment district boundary lines, was unanimously adopted.

This section was sent back to the committee for further consideration. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon, at which five members of the Council were present. It was decided to eliminate from the assessment district certain lots on St. Moore Hill. Otherwise the district lines were approved.

A report on this effect will be placed before the Council today by the Public Works Committee, and the assessment map will be approved. The Council yesterday ordered the City Engineer to prepare the ordinance of intention to construct the Second-street tunnel; and by the adoption of the committee report to construct the First-street tunnel as soon as the necessary condemnation proceedings are carried through. The City Engineer is instructed to start the necessary proceedings for the condemnation of a strip of land fifty feet wide, from Broadway to Hill streets.

The Public Works Committee will have a conference with representatives of the Los Angeles Railway Corporation the first of next week on the subject of re-routing cars so as to clear the way for tunnel construction. It was also announced that Mrs. Shepherd, who owns the property at the northwest corner of Hill and First streets, and who has secured a permanent injunction against the re-routing of cars from cutting down the northern half of First street, is willing to withdraw her suit, and the injunction dissolved, provided her frontage is carried back in terraces according to a plan prepared by the City Engineer and submitted several months ago.

Planning for the Stork's Arrival

Among those things which all women should know of, and many of them do, is a splendid external application which most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." It is a penetrating liquid and many a mother tells how it so wonderfully aided them through the period of expecting.

At any rate it is reasonable to believe that since "Mother's Friend" has been a half a century no more timely advice could be given the inexperienced mother than to suggest its daily use during expectancy.

Ask at any drug store for "Mother's Friend," a penetrating, external liquid of great help and value to women.

Bradford Regulator Co., 203 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book of useful and timely information to expectant mothers. It contains many suggestions that are of interest to all women.
